

WE NOMINATE

Richard William Colman Jr., one of the most effective coaches in Princeton University's century-long football history and a dedicated Princetonian for the past 24 years, whose departure for Vermont's Middlebury College as Director of Athletics with rank of Professor has been very much in the news for the past fortnight. Unfortunately, if not ironically, the resignation of the 54-year-old Colman, a development which has been anticipated for the past year or so, has been beclouded by a shrill, highly emotional charge by five black football players — two freshmen, two sophomores and a junior — that Colman in his coaching has shown "persistent racist tendencies."

While head coaches of football have become public figures, and as such are vulnerable to criticism from all sectors, reaction to the apparently baseless charges of a quintet of young men has not been slow in materializing. One of the country's best-known football analysts, a visitor to Princeton football practices several times a week for the past quarter-century, Len Elliott, recently retired Sports Editor of The Newark News, finds the accusations as "ridiculous as they are shocking." To call Colman a racist, in Elliott's view, "is like calling Santa Claus a sadist," for Colman is a political liberal, one of the strongest civil rights advocates "I know" and a deeply concerned Quaker.

This past summer Colman and his wife, pondering the possibilities for the future following his retirement from active coaching, which he looks upon as a "young man's profession," accepted a two-month assignment in Togo, West Africa, from the American Friends Service Committee. A world away from Palmer Memorial Stadium, and Princeton's pre-season training camp at Blairstown, N. J., the Colmans, fluent in French and for long years keenly interested in the developing nations of Africa, worked out with government officials in the former French colony the details of maternal and child welfare programs which the Friends Committee is now supporting.

Back in the early 1950's, when he was serving as line coach and senior assistant under his eminent predecessor, the late Charles W. Caldwell Jr., Colman made his "first run" for public office and was elected to Borough Council by a narrow margin on the Democratic ticket. In ensuing falls in moments of relaxation, Caldwell, a confirmed conservative and Republican, enjoyed nothing more than calling attention to his associate's "liberal leanings and aspirations." In 1957, several days after Caldwell's death, Colman was re-elected to Borough Council with the overwhelming support of minority groups and the Borough's black citizens.

Colman's overall approach to coaching, education and life are suggested in one of his valedictory statements: "My 24 years here have been a challenging, exciting and, above all, happy period in my life. I have been privileged to associate with young men whose spirit and dedication have been a constant source of inspiration to all of us lucky enough to be working with them. In the excitement of helping prepare Princeton football teams for some 220 games, I have run with them the emotional gamut from despair to exultation. Beyond the wins and losses, I have known what our squad members have put into Princeton football and what it has meant to them."

For his concern "for the problems of contemporary life which can be measured by what he has done as well as what he has said"; for his firm understanding of the role of athletics in the educational process; for sharing his enthusiasms and commitments with those whom he teaches; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

This Is Princeton

CONSOLIDATION?

Two Mayors Endorse. Princeton's two mayors would like to see a single, consolidated Princeton and will work toward that end in 1968.

"I have become more and more convinced that your elected officials could serve you best if there were one municipality," stated Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson in his New Year's Day address. Township Mayor John D. Wallace said the same thing in his address, but Mayor Patterson's statement comes with particular impact because the Borough mayor was opposed to consolidation when he was first elected seven years ago and has not been an advocate of it in the years since.

"We already have 'creeping consolidation,'" the mayor said later, discussing his stand. "Borough and Township officials confer on almost everything we do of substance or importance. Consolidation would be more efficient, and would give mayors, office-holders and staff more time to spend on other matters."

Mayor Patterson estimated that the Joint Human Rights Commission would have moved into being faster "if we hadn't had to touch bases all the time." A joint health board and a joint Planning Board (see box) may become realities in 1969.

In his address, Mayor Patterson said "I am very much aware of the serious practical problems involved, such as different tax rates, duplicate personnel, local pride and the like. I am convinced that these problems . . . can be readily solved by reasonable men."

line in the Township, new Mayor John D. Wallace said flatly. "I am convinced that the long-range development of the Princeton Community will best be served by consolidation. Our interests, desires, problems and frustrations are too closely intertwined to permit us to continue as separate municipalities."

Mayor Wallace reported that on Saturday morning as he worked alone in Township Hall, he answered a symbolic telephone call. It was from a woman who had just moved to Henry Avenue.

"Do I live in the Borough or Township?" she asked. "I don't know which one to call if I need the police. . . ."

The Next Move? The two mayors plan to meet frequently and will discuss consolidation, among other things, Mayor Wallace said. Neither mayor believes that another full-scale report, like the 1965 Dilley Report, is necessary.

Both mayors do agree that money is the greatest problem. Mayor Patterson emphasized that no real push can be made in 1969 until municipal tax figures are all in. Mayor Wallace proposed that once the budgets are completed and adopted, Township Committee and Borough Council should sit down together and consider consolidation.

Taxes are the big snarl. New Jersey's constitution doesn't allow different tax rates in two consolidating municipalities. Local Princeton tax rates are relatively close: the equalized tax rates for municipal purposes in the Borough is about 39c; in the Township, it's about 36c—a difference of about 10%.

Single Planning Board

A single, joint Borough Township Planning Board will be recommended to the two municipalities.

A sub-committee of eight has unanimously recommended the single board. It would have subcommittees to handle the detail work of each community.

Borough and Township Planning Boards must now approve the proposal. Then Council and Committee must pass duplicate ordinances.

Members of the study sub-committee were Mayor Henry S. Patterson, Planning Board Chairman Arthur Morgan and Planning Board members Bryan Moore and Norman Williams for the Borough; Mayor John D. Wallace, former Mayor Carl C. Schaefer and Planning Board members Carl Lindblom and Hans K. Sander for the Township.

But the school tax is Princeton's real hang-up. (The current situation, in which the Borough's school tax jumps to compensate for an error, is freakish and will have no long-term effect.)

What Pays What? Under the present valuation ratio formula, the Borough pays 38.75% and the Township 61.25% of a thin, 10% slice of the school budget. The remaining whopping 90% is paid on the basis of pupil enrollment: 28.4% for the Borough, 71% for the Township.

If the entire 100% of the school budget were shared by Borough and Township under that 38.75-61.25% formula, the Borough's tax rate would leap up 9c while the Township's would go down 32c.

This would be, needless to say, a rather tricky thing to sell to Borough voters.

"I am fully aware of these problems," Mayor Patterson reiterates. "I say — let's try to work them out. In the past, I might have used tax figures as a reason for opposing consolidation. Now I say — let's see if we can't beat the figures — maybe through the passage of some favorable legislation on the state level."

Incidentally, the county tax, which is part three of a municipal tax package, isn't a problem because of the county's equalized rateables system.

appoint a kind of small-scale Dilley Commission composed of citizens, or they might hire an outside consultant, as East Windsor and Hightstown did. However, the state's Department of Community Affairs is eager to help.

"We can give across-the-board technical assistance to communities that want to consolidate," says Jack Gleason, director of the department's Office of Community Services. Mr. Gleason's department sent a three-man task force last year to Warren County to assist Washington Borough and Township in their consolidation efforts.

"A man from our Community Services staff worked on administrative organization," Mr. Gleason explains. "An expert from the Division of Planning handled land use, zoning and so on, using the Master Plans of the two communities, and the Division of Local Finance analyzed the financial impact of tax-rate differentials."

Mr. Gleason points out that Washington, though less developed than Princeton, has exactly the same geography of the suburban doughnut and the urban hole.

The Department of Community Affairs will only send its task force if the mayors or the governing bodies make the request. Citizens can push but citizen request alone isn't enough.

"We like a token commitment in money," Mr. Gleason says. "Paying out money keeps mayors from ordering the study just to get off the hook. Communities are more inclined to take the study seriously if they pay for it."

The sum is modest indeed. Washington Borough and Township each paid $500. The $1,000 was used to defray printing expenses. Mr. Gleason estimates about $15,000 for the East Windsor-Hightstown report.

"We'd be happy to contribute anything we can to Princeton," Mr. Gleason emphasizes.

To start consolidation rolling, a petition signed by at least 28% of the voters in both municipalities must be presented to the governing bodies.

ENDORSES CONSOLIDATION

Princeton Mayor Henry S. Patterson ran for a fifth term this fall in order to support Borough - Township consolidation. "I am not yet prepared to make a public statement on whether I will run," he says.

Council and Committee would then appoint a consolidation committee to frame a plan. A majority of committee members from each municipality would have to approve and two public hearings would have to be held. At the public referendum, the measure would have to be approved by a majority of each municipality.

Like Princeton's two mayors, Mr. Gleason is clear-eyed about the snags, snarls and problems. But he prophesies:

"You have to think in long-range terms. We recommended consolidation to Washington, even though there might be some short-range disadvantages. But in 10-15 years, both communities will benefit. We'll do all we can to help Princeton."

"WEDNESDAYS" START New School Program. "Innovators are the ones who rescue all of us from decay." The quote, borrowed from John Gardner, highlighted a pep talk given Monday afternoon by school superintendent Philip E. McPherson to more than 450 teachers, school board members, school board candidates and resident-participants gathered to launch the controversial Wednesday Program of the Princeton Schools. The program is scheduled to start this Wednesday.

Observing the Monday date on the calendar, Dr. McPherson said "We're off to a fast start!"

Leaving Dr. Gardner momentarily to quote from another educator — John Marks, of the school board — Dr. McPherson reminded the audience that the purpose of the Wednesday afternoon program is to examine the whole process of education in Princeton today.

"We don't realize how bad things are," Dr. McPherson emphasized. "We may wonder in 20 years how we ever tolerated the situations we have today."

Race is Most Important. The superintendent said that priorities were the most important part of the program — "what we decide has to be 'first.' He then said that, in his opinion, race relations held first priority. And he warned that the 60 Wednesday workshops will not solve all school problems, but the present set-up is an ideal one.

Acknowledging opposition to the Wednesday Program, Dr. McPherson told his audience that many Princeton residents would undoubtedly vote against the budget as a protest.

"A budget is actually an all-purpose referendum on whatever is bothering people," he stated. He added that many people use the budget vote as a blackmail device: "Do this or that, or we'll vote your budget down."

Dr. McPherson read to the audience a telegram of congratulations from Robert H. Seltzer, assistant commissioner of education for New Jersey in the Division of Curriculum and Instruction.

Mr. Seltzer cited the involvement of staff and community in school affairs, and the concept of ongoing evaluation as two vital aspects of the Wednesday program.

"This may prove a major step in excellence in New Jersey education," Mr. Seltzer concluded.

In brief remarks, Mrs.

COUNCILMEN BEGIN A NEW LIFE: The Borough's two new Councilmen took their seats on New Year's Day. Mrs. Alice Male, a Quaker, said "I affirm" rather than the usual "I do solemnly swear," and the Rev. James Andrews used the form also. The man holding the Bible is Administrator Robert F. Mooney. The Junior member of the group is David Male, youngest of the four Male children.

George Fremont, president of the school board, said,

"The potential of this group is limitless. . . . Princeton parents really do want excellent schools and excellence doesn't come by accident. We are all to be congratulated for going ahead. . . . regardless!"

WHERE I STAND

For School Board. Princeton's eight candidates for school board have outlined their positions on school issues, especially the Wednesday Program and the budget.

In the Township, six candidates are jockeying for the two seats open on the board. In alphabetical order, they are:

George D. Cody, 14 Southern Way, physicist at RCA. "The Wednesday program isn't so different from what we do in business and industry. In my lab, I'm always being asked 'What are you doing and why?' I think it's a very exciting prospect. I'm pleased that teachers aren't content with the status quo and I think the community participation is very important."

Dr. Cody supports the budget. "I have a very favorable impression of the budget, especially considering the cost

Clifford B. Fair, 115 Longview Drive, science editor with Princeton University Press. "I was not completely sold on the Wednesday program at first, but now I feel we're committed and should give the program a chance. It will give teachers a great opportunity to gather together and develop together professionally and this is vital to a public school system."

Mr. Fair supports the budget. "It is very fair; the increases are necessary to compensate for inflation."

News Of The THEATRES

"THREE SISTERS" OPENS
 In Repertory. A play about infinite boredom is a play of infinite boredom. The yearnings of Chekhov's three provincial sisters for the gaieties of Moscow make a dreary weary evening indeed, and after a time at McCarter Theatre, you wish impatiently that the sisters would eat more vitamins to get rid of that nagging, tired feeling and take up some good, bracing hobby so we could all go home.

"The Three Sisters" is three and one-half hours long, long, long. The redundancy is deliberate: Chekhov says everything at least twice. His most frequent line is "I'm tired," infected with a heavy, downward stroke. In fact, repetition is so repetitive that by the end of the second act, it brings the play alarmingly close to a parody of itself. These skilled actors, if they had malice in their souls, could tip "The Three Sisters" right over the brink into outright laughter.

Sisters Three. The sisters, orphaned daughters of a Russian army officer, are roomed with their brother in a small garrison town where they run a boarding house. One sister teaches school and is subject to Excessive headaches Number 1 through 84. One is married to a kind, pompous man who bores her to adultery. The youngest, 20 years old as the play opens, is perceptive enough to suspect that "This Is Your Life" isn't going to be much of a show.

Endlessly these three yearn for Moscow, symbol of a better life; endlessly they clasp one another in damp and despairing embrace, endlessly they talk about the joys of work, only to find that the grime of a job isn't quite so remarkable as the concept, philosophically discussed under a glass of tea.

"A 'Peyton Place' Re-run. Even the actors in McCarter's competent company seem depressed by this re-run of "Peyton Place." Susan Kaslow is mostly fluttering eyelids and quivering chin as the youngest sister; Beth Dixon seems too slack to attract the dashing Robert Blackburn into an extra marital affair; only Kathryn Walker as the school mistress lets us see the frustrations that imprison the three women. Perhaps the best performance comes from Brendan Behan, who packs away the skirts of Charley's Aunt for the uniform of the Baron, playing this plain and devoted philosopher with sensitivity and nuance.

As you watch "The Three Sisters" you may be reminded of "The Glass Menagerie," catching here the same glimpse of longing for better things, hearing the same words of wistful anger spoken among people who love one another and are provoked to temper by their own frustrations. Struggling, fighting for a better life, winning and losing, can make superlative theatre indeed. Mere yearning, in the passive voice, does not.

"BULLITT" — For mature audiences.
(Motion Picture Assn. of Amer.)

"THE YELLOW SUBMARINE" — Adult, Youth & Children — excellent of kind.
— Parents' Magazine.

"Actually, what gives the film its continuity is neither the story nor Submarine itself. It is the visual style that designer Heinz Edelmann has imposed on every scene, a kind of psychedelic Aubrey Beardsley working in colors that might have come from Kate Greenaway books. If the combination of Beardsley & Greenaway can be considered suitable for children, so is Yellow Submarine. But as George Bernard Shaw once remarked about youth, 'it's much to good to waste on them.'"

"MORGAN!"

Ask McCarter. You remember him, of course. Piteously and comically dressed like King Kong, piteously and hopelessly in love with a blonde Londoner, piteously unable "to cope."

The blonde is Vanessa Redgrave. The King Kong is David Warner and the film is "Morgan!," the 1966 English comedy hit that no play McCarter next Wednesday, January 15 at 8 p.m. as the next in the International Film Series.

WHO'S ON FISH SCALES?

Ask McCarter. Rare instruments, including great leaves, birch bark and fish scales will be played by the musicians who accompany the Romanian Folk Ballet when the dancers come to McCarter next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

A shepherd's longpipe or "kaval," a "taragot" which looks like a clarinet and a tennistring guitar called a "toboa" harmonize with 12 kinds of flutes, a bagpipe, five different kinds of Alphorns and a cymbalom.

There will also be singers and dancers, and a total complement of about 190. Some tickets are still available at the McCarter box office.

PLAYHOUSE AND DRIVE-IN

The Yellow Submarine (now playing)—a feature-length cartoon, in which the Beatles save Pepperland, where love and music prevail, from the Blue Meanies, who are out to destroy the place.

Using their own singing voices and personalities, the four Beatles appear as animated characters. Old Fred, leader of Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, escapes from the Blue Meanies and in his Yellow Submarine, heads for Liverpool and help. Here he picks up the Beatles and off they go in the sub, making many fanciful detours, meeting strange folk such as the Sheik, King Kong and the 7th U.S. Cavalry.

The dialogue is full of satiric audio-visual puns, and the animation jumps with pop art, on art, mod art and psychedelic color. For music—three new songs and eight Beatle classics.

IT'S NEW To Us

A SURVEY COMES FIRST
With Craig Miller. If you contact with the Craig Miller firm about your decorating problem, you'll find an interior designer sneaking closer (for a couple of weeks) than an authorized biographer.

Do you wipe your feet when you come in? Does your husband miss the ashtrays? How do you operate in the kitchen?
Are you efficient—or inefficient?

"I almost live with a client for two weeks before I show even a piece of fabric," Craig Miller says. Armed with his little survey, he works to achieve a design where even your "liabilities can be assets."

He works with total zest and enjoyment of design possibilities. Clients find themselves so caught up that they call all hours of the day and evening with new ideas. And most often, the husband gets interested enough to join in.

"I ALWAYS GIVE PEOPLE A MONTH to live with a painting before they finally decide," interior designer Craig Miller says of the art collection that lines the walls of his new offices at 240 Nassau Street. The hunting cup on the marble pedestal is a bronze relief designed in 1849 by P. J.
Mette; the framed watercolor is by Fabio Fabri.

of his wife, a Yardley, Pa. girl.
He also maintains a shop in New York and has just opened a third in Montreal. Three decorators work out of his New York shop, a fourth is based here in Princeton and a fifth is in Montreal.

Craig Miller has done assignments in Georgetown houses, Washington chancelleries, New York penthouses, residences of all sizes and types, professional offices, hospitals and even a prison.

"His work in the prison was quite a challenge, to put it lightly. 'I worked only with color' in all of the dining rooms and recreation rooms.
His goal with color was to add dimension, a feeling of space, and to offset the dreary atmosphere."

He recently did an office in Princeton, breaking with the tradition that confines the executives to corner cells. "I find that executives are extremely personable, extremely busy men who feel psychologically left out when their offices are in a closed area."

Working with a knowledge of acoustics, he moved executives into main work areas, surrounded by grouped desks.
"The Number Two person feels more involved, too, when the top executive is working nearby. And you know, 90% of the sound of a typewriter can be absorbed."

He adds, "To me this is real design and decorating . . .
And the greatest thing that we find is that the people we work with—we KNOW these people, we like them or we wouldn't take on the job . . . whether it's a closet, a Cape Cod house or whatever."

Antiques & Art. He seems to have tackled most everything, dating back to the years when he was a student at the University of Utah. Those were the days when he bought solely in the areas of antiques and paintings, and mined in design in architectural studies. You'll find a complete art gallery service in his Princeton shop. And you're invited to browse.

A stint with a decorator in San Francisco introduced him to the boxlike look of the Thirties, with its black, suede and reversed leathers, heavy tufting, big plushy chairs, all of which he finds today a great asset in reconditioning large older homes. "I'm surprised that more people aren't showing it."

A sofa he designed as a take-off on a Thirties' sofa that he found in an elderly woman's home has been selling terrifically well here in Princeton. The furniture he designs he has made in Trenton and Philadelphia.

ber of the Dentist. He mixes a sense of today's humor into a number of projects, placing a Sony television set over a dentist's chair with ear phones for the youngsters in the chair. "At times the child gets a little carried away," he admits, "but it's a fun office, designed to take away the fear element... the lobby and waiting room are conversation pieces." He even designed a foyer with dark green velvet walls, a black ceiling and nothing else but a bust of the owner posed rather Napoleon style centered by two spotlights.

Ballitt (now playing) Steve McQueen plays the title role in the tight-lipped, stern visage manner. He's a Lieutenant on the San Francisco police force, but he wears turtlenecks. The case assigned to the hero is routine: he is to guard a valuable witness — a man turned stool pigeon who is willing to testify at a senatorial hearing on crime. In spite of the stalwart Ballitt, the hood is shot and dies in the hospital — a fact the hero keeps secret while he goes in pursuit of the two killers. There is a gun duel that follows a hair-raising chase through San Francisco.

The film is standard gangster thriller stuff. It incorporates all the latest cinematic tricks — jump cuts, filtered lenses, zoom lenses, scenes in pantomime and many hazy shots of people running toward the camera.

PRINCE

Candy (held over) Ewa Aulin, former Miss Sweden, is the innocent Candy who is continually seduced. Marlon Brando has the role of Grindl, the Jewish guru, and Charles Tannenbaum appears as the hunchback.

The film is a fairly true adaptation of the Terry Southern-Maxton Hoffenberg novel that was a best-seller among the college kids as a satire on sex and all the rest, it is inexplicably dull. The cast is surprisingly poor in their roles: Richard Burton, John Huston, James Coburn, Ringo Starr, Only Walter Matthau comes through.

In all, it's a bumbling effort at comedy, with racialism and sadism creeping in.

"SLOW DANCE" NEXT
In Intime's Series, "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground," William Hanley's stark drama, will be the next production from Theatre Intime. It is scheduled to open in Murray Theatre on Thursday, January 20, playing that week-end and the following one.

Ben Jonson's "The Alchemist" is next. Jonson's uproarious and brutal attack on greed and gullibility, will play the weekend of February 20 and 27.

An American premiere will follow on Intime's schedule. It is "An Irish Faustus," Lawrence Durrell's interpretation of the Faust legend, a play never before seen in the United States.

"An Irish Faustus" will be given on the first two week-ends in March, opening March 6.

Orson Welles' "Moby Dick" — Rehearsed" will open April 3 and continue the weekend of April 10. In this play, a group of actors gather to rehearse "King Lear" and find themselves reading from "Moby Dick" and finally acting it out.

Two original plays from winners in the Intime play-writing competition will be given in mid-April. "Mrs. Brenwaler's Indiscretion" by John Burgess, is a black comedy based on a story by Ambrose Bierce. "Listen to the Duchess," by Bruce Foid, is described as a naturalistic play. There are only two in the cast.

"The Knack," which was made into an award-winning film, will be given in May. Intime will bring its season to a close with "The Madness of Lady Bright," by Lanford Wilson, a play recently produced off-Broadway. It will be given in mid-and-late May.

at home in the bedroom," he offers ingeniously from his wealth of surveys. "In the Pillbox, the decorator put emphasis on the living and dining rooms. But we love to do small bedrooms. We can make them very masculine or boxy, or seem larger."

He recently put dark blue velvet fabric on the walls, a lighter blue marked with an abstract curved line on the ceiling. "It had a 4th dimension to it that just lifted this small bedroom up and out to heaven!"

He believes that mixing eras "is the greatest thing I have done since San Francisco. It can't go into every house, but people who are very expressive enjoy it."

As Craig Miller talks about interior design, there is an underlying sensitivity to the people who will live with it. "Shag rugs? They're terrific, but they're not for everyone. A shag can usually go with everything today. But some don't like to walk on the deep pile!" He designs carpets, either contemporary or oriental types, and lately has designed a lot of French-type carpeting. He uses wall papers on ceilings sometimes, and fabrics on walls, alert to an effect that expresses the client's personality.

"Anyone can afford a decorator," he says thoughtfully. "There's a lot of misunderstanding about this. I think my greatest dream is to reveal to Princetonians that no matter where they live, I wish they would think that their house is a reflection of them, that it's a part of them—not just something they have seen in a magazine. A house doesn't have to be redecorated all at one time."

MR. ENCYCLOPAEDIA: Jonah Wittenberg, who still has the 1935 edition of World Book that his mother bought him, browses through a volume of the 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica (1910-11). "The great edition of its time . . . a collector's item," Mr. Wittenberg is Princeton's resource man on encyclopedias. (See It's New To Us.)

THE HOME TUTOR
Your Encyclopaedia, Jonah Wittenberg has been hipped on encyclopedias ever since his mother bought World Book for him years ago. He found the renowned 11th edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica in an antique store and couldn't wait to buy it. Bound in soft leather, with an average of 1000 pages of thin india paper to each volume, it encompasses the total knowledge of its day. "It was published in 1910-11," he says, his dark eyes bright with enthusiasm. "The articles were written by the top scholars—as they are today—but it was so extensive. The scope of the world's knowledge was not so great as it is today, so the scholars could write in depth."

He's "Mr. Encyclopaedia" around Princeton. The man, the book stores and the library refer you to when you're pondering the merits of World Book, Americana, Great Books, the Encyclopaedia Britannica, or other publications.

"These are great things to own, an invaluable asset in any home—but some of the volumes on the market are little more than expanded dictionaries."

The kind of set you buy depends upon your family's probable use of it. And Mr. Wittenberg will come to see you armed with all of the facts and show you the latest copy of Kowler's "Encyclopaedias in Print" for study.

He can tell you about the expensive and inexpensive editions, largely separated by bindings. "It's the content that is so important. The more expensive bindings are worth the extra money because they are so beautiful, but from the point of serviceability, the moderate priced volumes are fine!"

If you call him at 924-2040 (his answering service) he will check back with you and answer any questions you have on the phone, which many representatives of encyclopedias do not do.

"Having the books in the home, especially if you have a young family, means that the books are there all the time. A family gets into a discussion at the dinner table and they turn to the encyclopaedia for the fact. The bibliography in the encyclopaedia refers to further reading that is usually available at the library."

His face warms to his theme. "I live with these volumes. I've taken on this business because I love them. An encyclopaedia article is a good start for a youngster. I personally would prefer to see the youngster guided into digging out the information—a consummation devoutly to be wished. This is what the parent will do."

Neighbors in the "Wednesday" Program

Participation by people who live in the Princeton community is an important part of the Wednesday school program. These are the townspeople who have signed up:

Dr. William Abrams, Mrs. Doris Allen, Mrs. Beverly Almgren, Mrs. Martha Andrews, Herbert Bailey, Mrs. Julia Baum, Mrs. Orly Benjamin, Mrs. Harriet Bogdanoff, Dennis Bonchrock, Mrs. Elaine Brower, Mrs. Alice Brown, Mrs. Nancy Bruce, Mrs. Adele Budd, William Coffman, the Rev. Eliot Daley, Mrs. Lila Freedman.

George Frenon, Mrs. Suzanne Frenon, Mrs. Inez Hinds, Mrs. Rosalind Frisch, Mrs. Ann Johnston, Mrs. Grace Loetscher, Mrs. Shirlee Lorel, Mrs. Billie Martin, Mrs. Mary Martin, Mrs. Leo Martinuzzi, Mrs. Betty McClelland, Mrs. George Meller.

Mrs. Nancy Nelson, Mrs. Sylvia Nichols, Mrs. Nadia Olney, Mrs. Dorothy Sams, Mrs. Elizabeth Scanlan, Mrs. Rose Steinhoff, Sam Tanasichiro, Mrs. Anne Thomas, Jack Thomas, Mrs. Bonnie Wagner, Mrs. Nancy Weaver, Hassler Whitney, Richard Williams and Mrs. Reetina Winters.

Three of these participants are members of the school board — Mrs. Frenon, Dr. Abrams and Mrs. Wagner — one is a retiring member of the board — Mr. Bailey — and one is a candidate for the board — Mrs. Hinds.

Topics Of The Town

that he holds a minority view on the board, but believes that since the board is run on democratic principles, "we should give the Wednesday program a chance to stand or fall on its own strength and weakness." As finance chairman, Mr. Pike supports the budget and urges the community to pass it. "It's a good budget which strikes a reasonable balance between quality and breadth of program, and economy."

Frank Quinby, 10 Montrose Road, Mr. Quinby is Township engineer. "It is my strong belief that Wednesday afternoon closings will bring no benefit to our children. It is the obligation of our teachers to remain with and instruct the children for a full day every weekday. . . . The ultimate value of any school system is the educational benefit of the children and not the educational benefit of the teaching staff, maintenance workers, secretaries, cafeteria workers, etc. as proposed." Mr. Quinby has not so far commented on the budget.

The Rev. C. Shelly Rooks, 152 Guyot Avenue, executive director of the Fund for Theological Education, Inc. The Rev. Mr. Rooks cites four problems: racial conflict and the use of drugs at the high school; "raises the educational horizons for the various racial and ethnic groups" develops marketable skills for the non-college student, and maintains at least the present level of excellence for college-preparatory students; public unrest over the school's narrow tax base for public education; the need for "continuing professional education for teachers, if possible within the working schedule."

The Rev. Mr. Rooks conceived the schools' Focus on Skills program for pre-high school students in need of help.

Walter B. W. Wilson, 110 Constitution Drive, research analyst with Dominick and Dominick, "I go along with the desire of teachers for the Wednesday program. We aren't locked into it, and it may have some very constructive effects."

On the budget: "The problem is to see that the allocations are fairly made, and I would support this budget." Mr. Wilson thinks the high school plant may have to be improved before long, although his own special area of interest is in reading improvement and the work of the Special Services department. He would like to see budget monies channelled into this kind of work.

BOROUGH

In the Borough, two candidates are in the race for the state seat.

Mrs. Richard Edwards, 23 Green Street, administrative assistant, Fort Dix Army Hospital, and president of the John Witherspoon Association, "I don't care for the Wednesday Program, but I do say that something in this educational system isn't 'jelling.' The kids aren't getting all they should. We need to have more community involvement: draw on University experts, or retired persons. We also need rapport between pupil and teacher and parent and teacher."

"I would prefer a lower budget, but if we cut it, what kind of education would we get? If this is the only way we can get good education, then let the budget stay."

Mrs. Inez Hinds, 229 John Street, supervisor in the Philadelphia public school system.

"The Wednesday program is valuable—I'm a participant. People talking together, can gain insight into the understanding deprived children and the problems of race relations. I've conducted in-service training programs and that's why I think Wednesdays will be so valuable."

"The budget isn't exorbitant. It's fair. You can't get good education for nothing."

TO DISCUSS HOUSING

With Borough Officials. Middle-income housing in the Borough is scheduled to move forward during January.

Princeton Community Housing, Inc. hopes to go before Borough Council in executive session this month to spread out before Borough officials P.C.H.'s plans for about 70 units of middle-income housing on the two Spring Street parking lots owned by the Borough; the one adjoining the public library, and the one across Spring Street on the corner of Tulane.

The non-profit housing organization, under state law, must obtain approval from the municipality. The dollar figures and the plans to be presented this month are preliminary, explained Theodore Vial, president of P.C.H. The Borough is not expected to approve or reject until plans and figures can be refined.

Blekes on the Slopes

For those who ski
The snow means "wheel!"

The first snow of the new year arrived Monday night, starting as rain and obligingly turning to white around 9:30.

That pattern just might be repeated late Thursday, the Man reports. More precipitation is due, and he says no one can be sure until it arrives in just what form it will be. There's a clue, however: temperatures for the month are expected to run somewhat below normal.

Topics Of The Town

SNOW, DOGS

On Committee Agenda. Snow and dogs ushered in the new year for Township Committee. Everybody is invited to a town-meeting on dogs to be held Monday, January 20, at 8 p.m. Details will be announced by Committee next week.

Future snows may be shovelled from Township sidewalks by the municipality as a public service.

Home-owners are now required to have the snow cleared from walks 48 hours after the snow has stopped. Children often must walk in the streets during those two days, reports the Traffic Safety Committee.

Elderly people who can't find small boys willing to shovel and housewives whose husbands are out of town, complain to Traffic Safety Committee they can't even meet the two-day requirement.

Engineer Frank Quinly told Township Committee Monday night that a snow-remover would cost $5,400, guidelines $600 and labor about $9,400 a year. Committeeman James Flook asked whether the snow-remover could be used for other purposes, too. Mr. Quinly replied that it was only good for minor grading and back-

Mayor John D. Wallace promised full examination of the problem in executive session.

Money for a new Kingston bridge has been approved by the state Senate, and now awaits Assembly action, according to a letter from David Goldberg, State Transportation Commissioner to Hans K. Santer, chairman of the Township Planning Board.

Committee approved the request of two doctors for permission to practice medicine in the residential zone at 181 North Harrison. Plans for an addition to the house must be submitted to the Site Plan Review Board, adequate parking must be provided and the permission is granted to the present owners only.

The Overbrook Drive sewer ordinance was introduced. Public hearing will be held February 3.

as magistrate. He succeeded Glen B. Miller Jr., who resigned to accept an appointment to the new State Commission of Investigation.

"Youth" Is New. In both Borough and Township, a new "Youth" department has been created. New Commissioner Thomas B. Hartman will carry the portfolio in the Township, and new Councilman Mrs. Alice Male will hold the post in the Borough.

In other Township assignments, Mr. Hartman was also given health-care and Open Space. New Commissioner Edward Floyd will be Committee representative on the planning Board and will also be charged with housing and building zoning.

Deputy Mayor Wilson will have taxation-financial, and public safety. Committee member Harry J. Volpe will be in charge of engineering and public works and sewer-incinerator.

Mayor Wallace will have civic rights, recreation and personal administration and the Joint Public Library.

Borough Council assignments have already been announced.

NEW CHARGES MADE
Against Rodriguez. Edmund P. Rodriguez, 20, charged last week with the entry into the home of Hilbert Ziesing, Edgerstone Road, where he was apprehended by a combined force of Borough and Township police, has been charged with the entry of another Township home.

As a result of the police investigation of the Ziesing entry, Rodriguez has been charged with the breaking and entering of Clarence D. Tuska, 401 Mercer Road. In addition, he was charged with larceny of an auto and possession of stolen property.

He was returned to Mercer County Jail to await a preliminary examination February 3 before the new Township Judge, Burton Peckin, Judge of the Municipal Court. Tuska entry at $10,000.

On the same day, Rodriguez will face a preliminary examination for his entry into the Ziesing home. The outgoing Judge, Glen B. Miller Jr., set bail for this hearing at $15,000.

Taken, in addition to silver and photographic equipment from the Tuska home, was Mr.

Plenty of Interest

For the past year, the Township has had about half a million dollars worth of interest in 5% certificates of deposit.

These fell due January 3, and the Township has re-invested its $500,000 in United States Treasury bills that are currently paying 3 1/2 percent. These have been re-invested for a period of 180 days, and the Township is now earning $13,000 more than it was at that July 3 date.

Over the past two years, says Mr. Ninl, lovingly stroking the ledger, the Township has picked up $13,000 in interest by careful investments. The Treasury bills will bring that total to about $30,000.

The half-million comprises various capital funds — money borrowed, but not completely spent. This sum is being used to pay out a lot of that money, but in the meantime, it's earning its keep.

Tuska's 1968 Cadillac. Township police said they found signs on Rodriguez that he was the driver of the car. Mr. Tuska, who fits the car. Township Detective Samuel Bianco, 101 Mercer Road, said in the case, reports that the suspect has refused to comment on the car. It has not been recovered.

Detective Bianco and Detective Norman Garvey, with Detective Robert McAvonia of the Borough, went to West Warwick, R. I., Rodriguez's last known address — to further their investigation and hoped to uncover some clue to the whereabouts of the missing Cadillac.

The entries are still being investigated by the Township and Borough police departments. Also involved are the West Warwick police, where Rodriguez is wanted for burglary and larceny.

BOURBON IS STOLEN

From Celler Liquor Store. Eight bottles of bourbon valued at $450 each were stolen over the weekend from The Celler, 121 N. 1st St. Police Chief John J. Bellow reported finding a front window of the liquor store broken Sunday morning at 3:10 while on patrol. Police called the manager, John Henderson, who said he had a half gallon of scotch valued at $15 and a $750 bottle of wine were broken by two men who entered through the window. At the time, he thought nothing was taken.

However, the eight bottles were discovered missing from a display window. Apparently the culprit is a "bourbon drinker," said Chief Peter J. McCrohan, wryly, at his press conference Monday.

In a theft reported Monday evening, the owner of Facchini Investigations, 134 Nassau Street, told police that a $165 Polaroid camera owned by his secretary, Mrs. Barbara Rozand, had been stolen sometime during the weekend. Police also reported that two 180 electric typewriters had been removed from desks and placed near the door and not taken. There was no sign of forced entry, they added.

Other thefts in the Borough last week include a Deborah Hospital donation canister containing between $15 and $20 in coins from a counter at the Country Farm Store, 205 Witherspoon Street, and a pair of electric skis from the roof of a car parked on Dickinson Street.

The victim of the ski theft was Charles Robinson of Laughlin Hall, Princeton University. Mr. Laughlin told police the skis were taken between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday. He placed no value on them for police.

Transmission Taken. Township police report the theft of a transmission and driveshaft from a car owned by Peter M. Dawkins of Magic Apartments.

When Mrs. Dawkins attempted to start the car parked in the Magic Flat last Thursday noon, she could not. She called her husband (the former star football player at West Point and Rhodes Scholar), and he discovered the transmission and driveshaft had been stripped from the car. Total value of the two components plus four hubcaps is $303.44.

The car was a Ford LTD. "Every time we get one of these it seems it is a GTO," said Detective Samuel Bianco. Sgt. Lester Anderson investigated.

FIRESTONE WILL GROW
Underground. "I'm glad to see them going underground instead of up high," commented Borough Planning Board member Charles R. Erdman Tuesday night after the Board had approved the University's $2.5 million, two-story underground addition to Firestone Library.

The 54,000 square foot addition (25,000 on each of two levels, "B" and "C") will extend out toward Nassau Street but its roof will be covered with grass, three or four feet below the existing northwesterly corner of the library. A "light" court will illumine the depths.

Construction will start in March, according to John Moran, director of physical planning, and will probably take a year.

The University came before the Planning Board for site plan approval under the zoning ordinance. The addition is the same as the one that was presented in October, 1967, the University expects to pay today. Firestone Library, built in 1947, was designed to be expanded either horizontally or vertically.

DIFFER ON JETS-COLTS OUTCOME: Scott Barnes of Princeton Clothing Company (right) picks the Jets to upset Baltimore in Sunday's Super Bowl, 24-17. "The AFL is ready," he says. His associate, Sam Morreale, picks Baltimore by an equally small margin, 14-10. Both agree the 17-point spread favoring the Colts is too much. (Staff Photo)

Question Of The Week

Question: How well do you think Joe Namath and the Jets will do against the Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl?

Where asked: Around town.

Scott Barnes, Lambertville, sales clerk, Princeton Clothing Co.: How do I think they're going to win? The reason is the AFL is ready. It's been eight years now. Seventeen points is too much of a spread. The Jets will win by three, by a field goal, 20 to 17. Namath plays terrific all the way. The Jets' defense is going to win it for them. Their defense is better than Baltimore's, record-wise.

Sam Morreale, Trenton, sales clerk, Princeton Clothing Co.: I think they are way out of line favoring Baltimore by point spread, the Jets are a shoo-in. Baltimore will still 17 points. I think with a 17 probably win but not by 17. Never! I think the score will be something like 14-10, Baltimore. The Jets will hold their own. I look for them to make the best showing the AFL has ever made.

Dick Fowler, Pennington Road, Hopewell, employee, Nelson Glass Co.: I think they are going to lose by a field goal. I think the Jets are underrated. They're going to get by that Baltimore defense by passing. Namath is too much of a player to let that Baltimore line get to him. It's going to be a battle between Namath and Morrell. I'd like to see the Jets win but I'll say the final score will be about 27-24, Colts.

James Skillman, Mercerville, projectionist for Princeton Playhouse: Not very good. I predict the Colts will win, 35 to 7. The Colts are too strong for anybody right now.

Ereest Byard, Trenton, employee, Princeton University, general utilities: I think the Jets are going to beat them. The Jets are real, real red hot and I think Namath is going to have a good day; he'll pass the Colts dizzy. I know Baltimore is going to score and I know the Jets are, so I'll say the score will be about 28-14, Jets.

Vernon E. Hoagland Sr., 49 Clay Street: I'll just say right off, Joe Namath. Joe will win it for the Jets, that's all I have to say. I believe he has the ability, he's a threat all the time. If he doesn't get racked up. That would make the difference. If Namath goes all the way, I'll say they'll whip the Colts by about three points. They're both good teams, but I definitely believe in Joe.

Crichton Adams, 16 Newlin Road, Princeton Day School sophomore: I think Namath is a much better passer than Morrell. Morrell is a good man -- I'm not saying he isn't -- but I really believe Namath is the better passer. However, the absence of any power in his arm in running game is quite obvious. Personally, I'm for the Jets but I believe the Colts will pull it off. I pick them to win by maybe 10 points.

Jack MacConnell, 42 N. Tullane Street, member of U.S. Coast Guard: It will be a fiasco for the AFL, just like last year's game. It's like a high school team playing a college team. I don't think the Jets will do anything. I'll estimate the score at 24 to 6 -- I figure there will be a couple of field goals in there. The only thing I can say about Namath is his receivers. Maynard and Sauer are what make him.

Ted Frank, Henry Hall, University senior: They'll do a lot better than the 17-point spread. I think the Jets may come within a touchdown and maybe even win with that 17-point spread. I think it is a great bet. I'll say the score will be 20 to 16, Jets. Namath has got probably the best receivers in football in Sauer and Maynard. I don't think the Colts will be able to cover them. I don't think they've faced anyone of this calibre this season.

Barry Blount, 5 Colonial Avenue, Princeton Junction, FHS senior: The Jets will kill 'em! They'll win by 20 points. I just think the Jets will win. They're good.

James B. Lackey, 134 Nassau Street, State Farm Insurance agent: They're not going to do anything. Broadway Joe isn't going to make it. The Jets just don't have enough experience, not enough depth. For the first time, Joe Namath is going to come up against a team that will apply pressure the entire game. Never, never, never has Namath in his entire career played a good game when he's been under constant pressure by the defense, and Baltimore has the front four that can do it. Nothing fancy, they don't blitz -- just a terrific team. And that secondary. I'll say the score will be about 28 to 7, Earl Morrall has come into his own.

Bill Cavanaugh, 150 Spruce Street, painter: It's automatic; it's got to be the Colts. For one thing, the Jets can't establish even 15 minutes of a running game. Joe Namath can pass all day long, but he'll get intercepted at least seven times. I'll say the score of the game will be about 35 to 6. Joe Namath is going to lose some.

ed a pass from center Bill Itamsey and the Tigers left the ice trailing by only one. The stickwork on both their goals was as sharp as any seen in Baker Rink this season. That was all the satisfaction they got — not only averting a shutout but bettering the average number of goals allowed by Dryden, an All-American, during his three-year career. That stands at a near-fantastic 1.7.

A considerable amount of fine goal-tending by Tilghman kept the score down up to 1:30 Friday against Wardlaw, and sophomore Tony Dale had not come out for the sport for the first time and played well enough to win a starting berth. PDS would not have had much to look forward to.

PDS TO FACE WARDLAW
In Basketball Opener, Breaks, both good and bad, have played a major part in the fortunes of the Princeton

Day School basketball team, which opens its season here at 7:30 Friday against Wardlaw. If Frank Andrews, a high scoring member of last year's squad, had not transferred to Pennington Prep, if Ed Cole, a line ball handler and defensive standout, had not broken a leg late in the football season, the Panthers would be a formidable team, indeed, ready to turn last year's 6:10 mark around.

However, if 6'2 center Calvin Johnson had not shown up to give the Blue and White both scoring and rebounding power, and sophomore Tony Dale had not come out for the sport for the first time and played well enough to win a starting berth, PDS would not have had much to look forward to.

The switch in personnel leaves Coach Jones speaking in cautious tones. While emphasizing that things certainly aren't as bleak now as when the team started practice, Jones points out that the improvement shown so far will have to continue in order to produce a satisfying season.

Of the trio of players who accounted for at least 85% of the scoring in games last year, Bill Rigot, Craig Page and Andrews, only Page, this year's captain, remains. A confident shooter from the outside, Page also has the ability to drive in for the close ones. Johnson should take up some of the scoring slack.

A third senior, Tom Spain, will be at one forward position along with sophomore Carl Jacobelli. Page and Dale, also a sophomore, will hold down the guard positions. Lack of height will be a factor this year as last, with Jacobelli the only other six-footer.

Reserve strength is present in junior Randy Martin, sophomore Dave Claghorn and freshman Carl Rosenberg, but Jones foresees problems if PDS gets into too much foul shooting slack.

The improvement Jones cites is readily apparent in the scores of the eight scrimmages played thus far. The Panthers lost the first four, including two to South Hunterdon and the Princeton High Jaycees. They have won the last four, recording victories against both of the last teams in return engagements. Jones indicated

NOT QUITE: Princeton's hockey team had momentary hopes in this second period action against Cornell that it had its third score of the game. Goals Ken Dryden, however, is lying on top of the puck, an obstructionist habit that contributed to his team's 6-2 triumph.

that a final scrimmage Wednesday against Pennington Prep would give him a good idea of how prepared his players are for the opening game.

The Panthers can count on one more good break in the way their schedule falls. Their first three opponents this year are Wardlaw, Englewood away on Wednesday, January 15, and Morrisstown Prep, away next Friday. PDS wallowed each by more than 20 points last year.

"The schedule favors us by giving us the three weakest teams to open against," Jones commented. "If we don't beat them, it could be a long road to the end of the season."

HUN AT MOORESTOWN

Pennington Here Next, The Hun School basketball team will play its fourth and fifth Penn-Jersey league games this week.

The Red and Black will be at Moorestown Friday for an afternoon contest and then entertain Pennington School at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. That will be a game of note for Hun in that it will be the first in the new Hun School gym—the first the school could call its own.

Hun was scheduled to resume action Wednesday at Perkiomen, following a 21-day break for the holidays.

Tigers in Trouble: Blacks Charge Discrimination by Coaches

The Facts

Five black Princeton football players have charged former coach Dick Coleman and freshman coach Walter "Pop" McCarthy with discrimination against them because of their race. They report that they are "dissatisfied and disillusioned with the Princeton football experience," claim that Negroes have not been assigned positions which their ability has earned them, and warn that "we will employ any means necessary to have our demands dealt with satisfactorily."

The complaints were recorded in identical letters dated December 16 and sent to President Robert F. Goheen, Director of Athletics R. Kenneth Fairman, and Colman. The University's Department of Public Information has issued a six-page graph report on the players' action, announcing, "In a Princeton 'is treating the letter as a private document' and that its contents would not immediately be made public. However, The Daily Princetonian in a special edition on Saturday revealed the names of the five Negroes and listed many of the charges the letter reportedly contains."

The players involved are Len Brevia, a junior who played defensive end; sophomore Mike Bigby, a defensive back; sophomore Len Coleman, who saw action as an end on offense and on the kickoff return unit; and freshmen Norman Townsend and Rod Plummer. The letter bore signatures of the first four, while the name of Plummer (who was elected captain of the team at the end of the season) was typed in without further verification.

According to the Princetonian, the letter asserts that Negroes have been praised in the press and to their faces but have not been given starting assignments. It is further charged that six of the last seven blacks on the Princeton varsity in a year left the squad before their senior years, and that no Negro has ever been assigned a starting position in the offensive backfield.

Demands Listed. The primary—and only tangible demand—voiced in the letter was that Coleman and McCarthy resign. The highly unusual coincidence of Coleman's resignation a fortnight after the letter was written—a decision that the head coach is on record as having forecast at long ago as last April—has been labelled by one of the players as "a victory for us."

Bigby was quoted in the Princetonian as declaring "I'm not sure how much effect our letter had, but I think it had some. We should now push for the rest of our demands."

These include such intangibles as "an immediate and drastic change in attitude by the coaches; insistence that a black player's desire to play on offense "never be snubbed as it has in the past," and "that the coaches stop deceiving both athletes and the press about blacks' status on the team." Praise in print should be followed by starting assignments, the five players feel.

Four of the players have said they will not report for football practice next September. The exception is Plummer, whom the others reportedly could not persuade to sign the letter. Starting safeman for the Class of 1972, he also played tailback and has been labelled by McCarthy as a solid bet to make the varsity in his sophomore year. He is the first Negro to captain a Princeton freshman football team.

"A Vicious Letter." Clear indication of the strong exception Dick Coleman takes to the charges come with his use of the word "vicious" in referring to the letter—with-out question one of the strongest adjectives the unit spoken coach has ever used in commenting on any facet of Princeton football. He typically polite negative, he also said that the charges are "without truth."

"The great boys," he added, "but I think they are wrong in their opinions as football players. I'm in complete sympathy with what all blacks are trying to accomplish, but not with these kinds of methods."

"During the season," Coleman continued, "it was pretty clear that one of the players on the varsity and another on the freshman squad were not happy because they didn't think they were playing as much as they deserved. It was just a question of the coaches' judgment."

McCarthy, saying he was "absolutely stunned," declared, "I thought we had very friendly relations with all involved." He added, "If it calls for a fight, I'm going to."

President Goheen invited the five players to discuss their charges with him. Christmas vacation began shortly after the letter was written, and as of last week-end, he said that he was still awaiting a reply to his invitation. Meantime, he has made no statement in support of Coleman and his staff.

While a lot of course concerned by the difficulties these young men feel they have experienced with members of the coaching staff, I want to express the utmost confidence in our coaches. Coach Coleman and his associates stand in the forefront of their profession. I have great respect for their achievements, their capacities as teachers, their interest in their players as individuals, and their ability to work in an understanding manner with students from a

The Opinions

"We're all worried sick over this. How do you fight this kind of thing? Nobody can come out a winner." That's Dick Coleman's reaction to the charges of racial discrimination leveled at him and his coaching staff by five black football players. No one can come out a winner—neither the coaches, against whom charges that are virtually impossible to prove in factual fashion have been leveled, or the black athletes to whom a long-overdue path of orders in integration had been open until they asked for special consideration because of their race.

If the four—or all five—players involved in the altercation do not go out for football next fall, they will have ended their careers as dissatisfied losers in an argument as to whether or not their ability is greater than the coaching staff gives them credit for. If they reverse their fields, and decide to play, every decision the coaching staff makes on the extent to which they see action will be tinged with racial overtones. Are they where they are on sheer ability? Or did the pressure they applied in their protest have a lingering effect?

In view of what has been said about discrimination playing a part in the coaching staff's past decisions, it would take a Soccerist to split that type of hair-line thinking accurately. Coleman points out that the letter "could create a terrible problem" for his successor, and it could hardly be more unfortunate for Princeton football that at the moment, no successor exists.

Indications are that two sophomores are primarily behind the charges, Len Coleman, an end, and Mike Bigby, a defensive back. Coleman is the player to whom Dick Coleman referred when he said that one member of the varsity and one on the freshman squad were not happy because they didn't think they were playing as much as they deserved.

The freshman was Norman Townsend, a defensive back. Bigby has been identified as the leader of the five making the charges. He saw more action than the average player in his class during the 1968 season as a defensive back.

Coleman came here with a reputation as a standout back at Montclair High School, but with Brian McCullough and Chris Montgomery on the Class of 1971 roster as tailbacks, saw only limited action a year ago. He reported to Blauvelt in September at the last minute, was converted to end and was also used for the kick-off return unit. The switch was made on the coaches' belief that tailbacks Dick Bracken, Scott McBean, McCullough and Montgomery were of equal or greater ability.

PHS AT LAWRENCE

Suit Looking for a Win. If Princeton High School fails to get by powerful Notre Dame in Wednesday's scheduled contest here, the Little Tigers will travel to Lawrence Friday night still looking for their first win in nine games. Pay off for the Lawrence game is 8 p.m.

Next Tuesday evening, PHS will be at Steiner for an 8 p.m. contest.

A few years ago, fledgling Lawrence High would have been the breather that Coach Larry Ivan's Little Tigers need to capture that first win and restore their confidence. But off Friday's stunning upset of Florence last week, Lawrence indicated it is going to be anything but easy.

Lawrence, 2-3 in the Delaware Valley League and 5-2 overall, swamped Florence perennial DelVal champions 32-48, overcoming a 16-8 quarter deficit in the process. The Cardinals were led by their third-year starter, Paul Adams, who scored 14, and by Jim Evans' and Ben Richardson, who combined for 28.

Steiner has been in and out this season, but it counts PHS as one of its infrequent victims. In the consolation round of the holiday tournament sponsored by the Hamilton Township Jaycees, Steiner defeated PHS by 20 points.

The Notre Dame game Wednesday was a originally scheduled for Tuesday but was moved ahead one day at the request of Notre Dame.

Cathedral Wins, Friday evening at the Trenton High gym in its contest with Cathedral. PHS played for the percentage shot in an attempt to stymie the fast-breaking Gaels. The percentages went against Blue and White, however, as it hit on only seven of 42 shots for a 17 percent performance. To those 14 points, PHS added eight foul shots (it missed 19 for a total of 22 points. Cathedral scored 58.

Cathedral wasn't much more accurate. It hit on 29 percent but it took nearly two as many shots—81 to Princeton's 42.

"We were trying to control the offense," said Ivan. "We knew they were going to press us—they're a fast-breaking club off the press—and we didn't try to run with them."

"We were hoping to change their tempo," he continued. "To hold the ball and work for a real good percentage shot." It almost worked. Princeton's controlled offense held Cathedral to a 9-6 margin after the first period of play.

"We made them very hungry for the ball. They were so anxious that when they did get it, their shots were hitting the backboard. They were really firing that ball. They shot 81 times; that's a lot of shots for a high school," said Ivan.

"Eliminate half our bad passes and if a couple more of wide variety of basketballs.

Dr. Goheen has named a committee of nine, representing faculty, students and administration, to help insure that the charges receive full and careful attention and to recommend whatever action it judges to be proper. Appointed chairman was Eric Erling Dorf, Professor of Geology who heads the Faculty Committee on Athletic Eligibility.

Serving with him will be Neil L. Rudenski, Dean of Students; Dr. Carl A. Fields, Assistant Dean of the College; Prof. Wallace E. Oates, Bicentennial Professor in Economics; Dr. John J. Conroy, Director of Physical Education and Coordinator of tennis and squash; and Anthony J. Maruca, Executive Director, Administrative and Personnel Services. The three undergraduates chosen by Dr. Goheen will be identified as soon as their acceptances have been received.

JEFF HARING, 5-10 guard on the Princeton High School basketball team, is shown here with his coach after the Cathedral game for his improved ball handling. "He's settling down," said Larry Ivan. Haring is a junior.

our shots drop, we would have been right in the game."

What killed Princeton's game plan was its poor foul shooting, many of them on 1-and-1 situations. Even more costly, Ivan reported, was the inept ball handling.

"Cathedral literally stole the ball from us ten times," he said. "That hurt. We were in the ball game up to that point."

Brooks Out, Billy Brook's absence didn't help, either. Billy, the leading scorer on the club, has been sidelined with a prolonged bout with the flu that has left him weak. "That's 12 or 14 points right there," said Ivan. "When we set the plan up, we didn't expect him to be sick."

Commenting on his attempt to control the ball, Ivan remarked: "We play to win; not to please the other coach."

One of the few pluses for PHS was the absence of Tim Rollings. Playing his best game of the season, Tim led the team in scoring with nine points, eight coming on long jumpers. At least four other shots of his were of the right-lity than Coleman, and that he would see virtually no action as a sophomore unless moved to end, where the need was greatest. (Protest and pressure) from the Montclair area, where there is considerable disagreement with the coaches' use of Coleman in his first two years, have reached Princeton in steady sound waves.

The nine-man committee named to investigate the validity of the charges appears to have a near-insurmountable problem in reaching a decision because so much of the "evidence" it will consider is opinion, so little is fact. It is a protest against coach: we deserve to have a higher rating on the bench coach based on estimate of our ability, the players charge, adding that some of us prefer to play offense rather than defense. The coaches, in turn, obviously believe that their estimate of each player's potential is made without regard to the color of his skin, and it is painful to estimate how such a point can be debated without rancor.

Paradoxically, it is worth observing that most college coaching staffs assign most of the best players to the defensive platoon. Do you want to stop the other team from scoring, the philosophy goes, and your offense may hang enough points on the board to win. The regrettable aspect of the charges is that they are divisive—sharply so—at a time when steady progress had been apparent in working toward a common goal.

Zanfrini to Be Honored

Eddie Zanfrini, who retired last June after 35 years as one of the nation's top college athletic trainers, will be honored Monday at the annual dinner of the Delaware Valley Chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame. The affair will take place at Cedar Gardens Restaurant on Route 33.

From 1933 until his retirement last spring, Zanfrini served Princeton in his profession save for four years during a period immediately after World War II when he was at Dartmouth. He was with U.S. Olympic teams in various capacities from 1932 through 1968. The Princeton trainer was an athletic trainer of fall and winter sports at Lawrenceville.

The 1969 Award for Contributions to Amateur Football will be presented to Zanfrini, Richard Sandler, middle guard and three-year letterman on the Princeton football team, will be given the College and University Scholar-Athlete Award at the dinner.

in, right-out variety, according to Ivan, early in the game and "that could have changed things."

Johnny Madden added five points and Fritz Loats four to account for 18 of the 22. A starter for the first time was John Greedy, smallest player on the squad.

"He's been hustling and showing a lot more composure," Ivan explained. "I told him: if you hustle, you play."

And the Future? A look at the schedule indicates that it is going to be another long season for PHS. Many of the schools that have already beaten PHS will play it again.

"We play one of the toughest schedules in the state," Ivan acknowledged. "We're going to change it. We have to build up the confidence of the players. We have to get them up, to convince them they can win. And its tough with a schedule like ours."

"Franklin was our poorest game of the season. There's no question about that. But from then on it's been one tough game after another. It's hard to get the team up mentally when you're in something like this. Right now, I'd say the team is prepared 50 percent physically and 10 percent mentally."

"We're banking a great deal on the junior varsity team," he continued. They're 4-1 now. They're winning and we want to keep it that way. Art Ware is doing a great job."

"We'll be all right. There is our second year. There are still a lot of links to be worked out, there's still progress to be made. We have to build confidence in ourselves that we can win. I also think the school body itself has to adopt a winning attitude."

PDS SKATERS PREPARE
For Opening Game Friday, A young Princeton Day School hockey team, hit hard by losses through graduation and transfers, will open its 1969 season at 4:30 Friday against the usually strong Cranford Hockey Club.

At the end of last year coach Harry Rulon-Miller knew he would be losing three seniors, his fine first-line center Evan Donaldson, plus two other capable skaters, John Claghorn and John Taylor. By the time practice began this year, he had lost three more players through transfers, a problem every PDS coach will always face. Basil Stelson is now at Kent. Freddie Erdman at Taft and John Battle at Choate.

This leaves the Blue and White with only two seniors, Bob O'Conner and Bill Chalvers. The two will both skate on the first line, the former at center, the latter at left wing, along with sophomore Sam Rodgers at right wing. A pair of juniors, Deeks Young and Jim Rodgers, will start at defense, with John Moore in reserve.

Goal tending duties will be shared by junior Chris Reeve and sophomore Tom O'Conner. Rulon-Miller commented that he would be relying primarily on a solid defensive unit as the Panthers' main strength.

The second line will be centered by freshman Peter McCandless, with sophomore Terry Booth and Robbie Holt at the wing positions.

The Panthers were 6-5-1 last year, and will have to come up with several strong performances to improve upon that. Canford knocked off the Panthers once last year, and the two tied in a rematch. The visitors make up in hustle what little they may lack in ability.

kay, 1708 Lawrenceville Road, Trenton.

Main Problem. Marijuana is the main problem in Princeton, he said. "It's not only Princeton, it's every major city and every suburban town in the country. So many of our youth in college and high school are using it that it's almost as though there's a plan to destroy our youth!"

He stated that any young person can afford marijuana. "It can be a nickel a pack, a dime, a little envelope is $5 — the kids have the money. We give the kids money and we pay no attention to their activities. As soon as this town wakes up, it'll be a better town. We have to search ourselves as individuals.

"In fact, a kid doesn't have to have any money. He can set up a contact and become a pusher just to satisfy his own needs.

"If you see any of these tools in your home — cigar rollers, papers, postal scales — be suspicious. There's something wrong. If you come in the house and there's a strong odor of incense, be suspicious. They use the corn cob pipe a lot, and Turkish water pipes. These kids can talk about it right in front of you and you don't know it.

"It's not only a police problem. It's a community problem. We're the first ones you should call, but we're the last ones you call. There's a code of silence. I'm sure there are plenty of adults who know and kids who know, but they don't come to us.

"Each person who takes up the habit can influence three or four others — and they, each in turn, influence three or four more. It's the pusher we want!"

As long as the adult world argues whether or not marijuana is harmful, the young people are going to use it, Township Police Lieutenant Fred Porter told parents and teenagers on Sunday morning at Calvary Baptist Church.

"We have heard so much pro and con about marijuana," he said bitterly, "you hear doctors who don't worry about it. You hear psychiatrists say the same thing—'there's nothing wrong with it.'"

"I defy them when they say that. It is a harmful narcotic and it can ruin you as an adult or a teenager! But because of the pro and con, most kids feel it's harmless."

Bat Man. Marijuana, he said, is a minor hallucinogenic drug. Its use dates back to ancient civilization. People of various cultures fortified themselves with it before going out and committing atrocious crimes. Soldiers used it before battle. "The Moslem shieks knew its power, and they fortified their warriors with it."

He described the effect of marijuana: "You lose perception. It will make you jump out of a window, think you are Bat Man, think you are God. You'll drive down the street with your hands off the wheel.

"The kids who use it are skin and bone. They look like rigor mortis is beginning to set in. Some of them have dual personalities—not that the marijuana causes this but they have built a dependence upon marijuana—and I defy any doctor on this."

The next step, he said, is "speed," which can be taken intravenously or orally, "but most of the kids sniff it. It deteriorates the brain. It can kill you. I try to stay out of this on the doctor end, but if I had a doctor tell me 'don't worry about it' if I found my daughter using marijuana.

Money Talks. Lt. Porter discussed the economics of "blowing pot." Marijuana, he said, is the hemp plant, and the United States government by law can issue a license for cultivating the plant—an arrangement dating back to the days when hemp was used for rope. "But for I don't know how many years there has not been a license issued to grow hemp. If there wasn't something wrong with it, the federal and state governments would be making tax money on it!"

"Tons of it is smuggled over the borders every year. Tons are grown in this country every year—and tons are destroyed by law and order officials. The only one who is reaping on this is the criminal. He is reaping this off our teenagers—because the only way the kids can get mari-

The Easy Jump. Lt. Porter stood foreshore against legalizing marijuana. "You become psychologically dependent upon it and move to stronger drugs. . . . You need $50 to $100 a day for heroin if you're a true addict. There is only one way to get that kind of money. Prostitution or you become a thief. . . . Dope and prostitution are the Mafia's main things."

He cited the recent law giving penalties to the sellers of marijuana and other drugs: as a high misdemeanor it carries a $2,000 to $10,000 fine and a prison term of two years to life at hard labor. "I don't see how it has curbed anything. Any curbing that is done is through the adults."

He passed test tube samples of marijuana through the audience, pointed out the cigarette papers and rolling machines commonly used. "Hashish," he said, "is the really refined, manicured stuff. The man who's dependent on this would hold me up. It's expensive. Hashish is the dust that's scraped off the leather jackets of the laborers who are hired just to Both were taken to Princeton Hospital by the other driver, George H. Sands Jr., of Elm Drive. They were treated and released. Mr. Sands told police his car started to skid to the left as he approached the curve at the intersection.

WHY HAVE A SALE?

My first sale since opening in May is predicated on my experience since then. I want lots of people to get acquainted with the shop. I have made many friends this year but need more. Then, too, I am adding more merchandise — changing direction in some ways, and discontinuing some lines, not because they are not good. But in some cases because the prices were high and the public felt they weren't worth it.

From now to Jan. 31 customers will get a minimum discount of 10% off anything they buy. In addition many items are on sale with discounts of 25-50%. Most people will not pay high prices for good plastic. Most of my plastic articles are on sale. Come see for yourself some of the values. — George Jensen Christmas cards — 1/2 price — selected stainless steel and teak items — up to 1/2 price — Drummer men's toiletries — 1/2 price — our famous leekade sweaters, regularly 46.00, now 25.00 (no medium sizes) — Notsjö glass from Finland 1/2 off. Lots more. For the best in contemporary design see

How to Get Results without Advertising

Mr. A's son, on leave from the Army, lost his watch while skating on Lake Carnegie. His father came to TOWN TOPICS to place an ad describing it and offering a reward for return of the $100 timepiece.

He had just paid for the ad and was about to leave when Mr. B. walked in, announcing that his son had found a watch which he wanted to advertise. Down by the lake, he said.

Considerable merriment followed, which is just as it should be during the holiday season. Mr. A got a refund for the ad he didn't need and Mr. B, who did not wish to advertise either, told him he could pick up the watch anytime. No thanks, he said, no reward necessary.

ANTIQUE LOVESEATS, pitcher and bowl, lovely English butter dishes, brass silver, butters, and many more finds. 362 1/2 Nassau Street 504-9197.

but at Country Antiques can you find . . .

A man's lifetime collection of the 1800's (frankly, we know it's the value of Almanacs and this may be a very good gamble) for someone who does know! Many early advertisements.

A primitive corn planter (an ex-ample of the wooden ware in early America).

Early school books, one printed in Trenton in 1803 and a band written one — 1810.

A country store meat and cheese slicer.

A lovely primitive double broiler with copper base, tote sides and lid, probably from a Dutch.

A large blue sponge boat (salt glaze), was probably a large milk, iron bowl or for punch.

A Penna. redware bowl (brown glaze with black spots), a sophisticated piece and only loved by those who are aware of what it is or was.

Large glass oil lamp-dark green; all original and blank; never not converted.

"GENERAL LEE HOUSE"

A member of Washington's staff, General Lee was quartered in this classic center hall Colonial during the planning of the Battle of Monmouth. The house is constructed of stout stone and brick and was completely rebuilt in 1965. It is now a combination of rustic charm and modern convenience.

Gracious lines, beamed ceilings and 4 working fireplaces are just a few of the delightful features. Modern kitchen with wall to wall carpeting; breakfast room (has 20' oak table ideal as project space for kiddies or for feeding the tribe); paneled powder room; rustic dining room with walk-in fireplace and chestnut beamed ceiling; carpeted den with beamed cathedral ceiling and built-in bar; spacious living room with fireplace and attractive library with fireplace. Three bedrooms.

The house is set midst terraced lawns, brick walks, and tasteful landscaping. Surrounded by approximately 10 acres; there are 2 springs and 1 pond on property; picnic grounds; fenced paddock and horse barn. A marvelous stone barn ripe for restoration as guest or playhouse. Heated swimming pool with hidden lighting and magnificent view of valley.

This is without a doubt one of the best values we have seen in an authentic Colonial in a long time.

Offered at $72,500

It does things other small cars shouldn't do.

Cornering at high speeds is one of the last things to expect small cars to do, successfully. Unless it's a SAAB, the out-of-the-ordinary small car. Out of the ordinary because of its wheel drive. So it doesn't push you around like others do, it pulls you around corners, curves and other drivers' mistakes. Is that all SAAB has? Not on your life. Most ordinary cars don't give you, even as options, all the standard SAAB safety features. As an optional extra, our new V-4 engine has a LIFETIME GUARANTEE.

TO START THE NEW YEAR OFF RIGHT,

WE HAVE THREE INTERESTING NEW PRINCETON LISTINGS

FOR YOU TO CONSIDER

YOU SIMPLY WON'T BELIEVE the number of rooms you'll find inside this "little" gray house in the Littlebrook School district. There's a living room with fireplace, study, dining room, kitchen, 4 bedrooms and bath, all arranged in an unusual floor plan to provide a surprising amount of privacy for a small house. Garage. Freshly painted in-ide and out. Available very shortly. We think it's wonderful at $31,000

THE PIECE DE RESISTANCE: of this mellow, Township house, is the marvelous family living room which the present owner and his clever architect added several years ago. Warmly paneled, indestructibly floor and lined with bookshelves and cabinet space for everything, toys, sewing machine, hifi, etc. This big room is really the hub of the house. Bright and cheerful all year 'round, with banks of windows on three exposures, it is a particular delight in summer when the Dutch door is swung open to a shaded terrace of antique brick. Besides this wonderful room, there is a stone-floored entrance hall, carpeted living room with wide bay window and fireplace, separate dining room, modern kitchen, laundry. Four bedrooms, including a handsome master suite and two baths, plus a study or fifth bedroom with its own full bath. Good, dry basement, two car garage. Beautifully situated in a cloud of dogwood at the end of a quiet cul-de-sac within easy walking distance of elementary school. $64,500

THIS MAN'S HOME IS ALMOST A CASTLE: a picturesque interpretation of an English manor house, built in Princeton's Western Borough in the late 1920's. Of stone, stucco and great oak timbers, it contains a wide entrance hall with pegged oak floors, appropriately baronial living and dining rooms, floor to ceiling bookshelves, car study, and modernized kitchen on the ground floor. There is a two room and bath master suite as well as four other bedrooms and two baths. Children's play room with fireplace and adjoining bath. Also includes a large apartment presently rented for $400 per month. Two car garage. On a beautiful acre with old shade. $98,500

WHEATSHADE LANE . . . on one of Princeton's loveliest streets, this little gem of a house is ideal for a couple dreaming of retirement. First floor: living room, dining room, modern kitchen with a screened deck, just out the back door where one can linger over a late breakfast and listen to the music of Henry's Brook in the back yard. . . plus 2 bedrooms and a brand new tiled bath. Downstairs a large recreation room with bar, with a door to the back yard. The lot is small and easy to maintain, but the trees and shrubs are so luxuriant that they create a privacy which you will prize forever. New refrigerator-freezer and combination washer-dryer are included in the sale. . . also, will to wall carpeting throughout the house, and some furniture in the recreation room. (*) $34,500

NEW COLONIALS . . . built by one of Princeton's most dependable builders, these fine new homes are located among leafy trees on a quiet cul-de-sac in West Windsor Township. For commuters, only three minutes away from the railroad station. All six homes will be ready for occupancy in the Spring. 4 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, family rooms. Now is the time for you to make your choice, while you're still able to choose colors, equipment, etc. Your children will love the area, for there are many playmates in this young neighborhood.
